JUSTIN PETERS
Iowa State University

Representation theory for Dirichlet Algebras

The class of Dirichlet algebras, which consists of those operator algebras A for which A + A* is dense in the C*-envelope of A, contains some of the nonselfadjoint algebras which have been studied in recent years. We look at a general framework for the representation theory of these algebras.